

I am against the refarming of the digital areas of the bands. There are still significant amounts of hams who use these modes and there is sufficient bandwidth already allocated to the SSB and other voice modes.